“*Jeremy was a great student while at Lewis & Clark College. He was one of my first 2 research students. We co-authored an article for the Astrophysical Journal on the subject of high-velocity interstellar clouds. He was a joy to work with and will be sorely missed. “Jeremy's father was my medical partner for many years. Simply put, the best physician I have ever met. I saw Jeremy grow from a young child, next to my own sons, enjoyed watching him become a successful and accomplished man of his own. Jeremy once tried with little success to explain to me what he was studying in college. It was far too complicated for me. I am truly saddened and overwhelmed by this terrible loss. To Jim and to the rest of the family, my family and I extend Our Sincere Condolences and Our Very Best Wishes. Richard E; Waltman, MD

“ Jeremy and I were labmate back to 2004-2007. My impression with him is that he is very smart and humorous. I attached a photo back to 2006 when we had a trip to Aix-les-Bains in France. Jeremy, we had fun time back to graduate school. You will be sorely missed and may you rest in peace. Ken Wang
