“ My wife and I met Lazer at the Ritz in 2018. We spent a few days in NYC, and would always end our day in his corner of the bar for cocktails. One evening I made the mistake of telling Lazer we were from Texas, after which he insisted on giving me "Texas Sized Pours" on my drink refills. Needless to say, we became friends and stayed in touch thereafter. We'd text back and forth on holidays and every so often to say hello. We had a ongoing discussion that one day he would come to visit me and I'd take him out to hunt wild hogs. That would have been a great trip.

He was a very genuine person, and he fit my description of a New York city tough guy. I had a lot of respect for him in the short time that we were friends, and I looked forward to seeing him again the next time we made it back to New York. I am happy to have known him for a brief time, and we are praying for his loved ones dealing with his lost. Rest In Peace my friend.

I am so sorry that he passed. I will miss him a lot. I already do. We were good friends. We always had real, meaningful conversations, shared important personal things. He was to me a genuine, kind, hospitable, and a very interesting gentleman. My deepest condolences to his entire family, friends, and loved ones. May God Bless his beautiful soul. I know from my experiences how hard it is. I wish you patience and strenght! God Bless You all.

“ One of nicest people I've met in NYC. It was truly great being able to count him among my friends. I met him at the Ritz and he was a consummate professional. My family and I always thought of him more as a family member who just happened to work where we stayed. He had bracelets blessed at his church for me which I really thought was great seeing as I wear several. I'll miss his camaraderie and smiling face.

We met first met Lazer in 2014 at the Ritz, and his personality and hospitality made for one of our favorite aspects of coming to NY as a family, which we did every year until Feb 2020. So now that we're planning on finally going back next month, we're incredibly saddened to learn of his passing, and know that he is incredibly missed by all, especially his family - whom he was always very proud of and kept us updated on.

Our deepest condolences to his family and children.
