“ I barely knew Sandy as I was just joining and Sandy was winding down her long service to TVAC and I only rode with her a few times when I was new. I was a novice instructor 25 years ago and this was a time when we didn't have real manikins to train with. Well in the training materials closet was a huge stuffed PINK PANTHER! I asked about it and I was told that Sandy Morris made it so that we would have some sort of training manikin. that huge stuffed Pink Panther was very cute and it was a standard part of our training materials until we later got real manikins but even then it hung around as an adjunct and we still used it and everyone loved it.

Although the Pink Panther has long gone, I remember it from so many years ago and so many calls and classes, and I remember Sandy. Thank you Sandy for those memories.
